FEAR TWO VESSELS WERE LOST
ON LAKE HURON AND ONE
BOAT WRECKED NEAR BUFFALO.

TRAFFIC IS HELD UP

Cleveland Is Still Paralyzed as Result of Blizzard and Eastern Trains
Are Reported Stalled in Snow Drifts.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 11.—The tug Sarnia City returned this forenoon after an all night watch over the 600-foot steel freighter which lies upside down in Lake Huron.

The fact that the vessel's bottom up eight miles out in the storm swept lake has convinced local mariners that the ship's crew had but a slender opportunity to escape.

Captain Reed of the tug returned more firm than ever in his belief that all of the thirty or forty members of the crew of the 600-foot freighter must have been drowned. The wreck not having been seen until late yesterday it was difficult to ascertain when the disaster occurred and where it took place. The overturned vessel probably drifted several miles.

Captain Plough, in charge of the local life saving station, left this morning with his crew for the scene of the wreck.

Searching parties were also organized to patrol the shore in search of wreckage.

Reports indicate that a shifting of cargo may have been responsible for the accident.

Second Vessel Lost.

Captain Reid also ventured the opinion that another vessel may be on the bottom of Lake Huron near where the overturned steamer was first discovered. He can only account for a shifting of her cargo or as a result of a collision.

UNVEIL A MONUMENT TO THREE GENERALS

South Carolina Daughters of Revolution Honor Generals Marion, Sumpter and Pickens.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 11.—The main feature of the opening day of the 17th annual state conference, Daughters of the American Revolution, which convened here today for a four days session was the unveiling of the monument to the partisan generals Marion, Sumpter and Pickens, which the South Carolina Daughters of the American Revolution had erected on the grounds of the State Capitol.

The opening session of the conference was held this morning at the Jefferson Hotel and in the afternoon all the delegates assembled in the State Capitol grounds to attend the unveiling exercises.

Special stands were provided on the grand stand for the descendants of the three partisan generals and for the members of the original monument committee who are surviving.

The exercises were short but impressive. Yates Snowden, LL.D., professor of history, University of South Carolina, delivered an address; then there was singing of patriotic songs by the school children supported by the university chorus and the university glee club.

The cords which removed the covering of the monument were pulled by four small descendants of the three general commanders, Calhoun, Sumpter and Master Reuther, descendants of Gen. Pickens; Master Reid Johnson, who traces his descent back to Gen. Marion; and Master Tisdale, who numbers Gen. Sumter among his ancestors.

The monument, which was designed and modeled by Wellington Ruckstuhl, in Paris, consists of a large bronze figure representing Victory, resting upon a massive pedestal of granite. The sculptor of the monument was present at the unveiling ceremonies.

JUNEAU WILL STAY AS WISCONSIN COACH

Director of Athletics Denies Newspaper Reports That He Will Resign.

Madison, Nov. 11.—Director of Athletics George Juneau today put a wrinkle in newspaper reports that Coach Juneau would not be retained as football mentor at Wisconsin.

"The statement was absolutely without the slightest basis of truth," he said, "and furthermore the means and motives of criticism that could be directed against a man during his hour of defeat, I consider that Coach Juneau has rendered fully as valuable and as loyal services this season as he did last year and there is not the slightest reason to doubt that he will be retained as head coach of Wisconsin football teams just as long as he continues his excellent work."

New York, Nov. 11.—Two Pullman cars, bearing members of the local branch of the National Coffee Roasters' Association, left for Cincinnati, O., where the annual convention of that organization will be held this week.

According to Ross W. Blair, president of the local association, a resolution was passed by the body at a recent informal dinner praising the work of President Arch of the National Association, and recommending his reelection. One of the leading subjects to be discussed at the coming convention will be the proposed establishment of a bureau of coffee research, at some university of recognized standing.

The question of Brazilian coffee propaganda, including the proposal that the local association should make an appropriation for advertising coffee in this country, in a fight against substitutes, also will be discussed. A proposal to revise the constitution, so as to admit jobbers of green coffee, will come up for consideration.

PLACE A DRAG NET FOR MAIL THIEVES

Chicago Police and Secret Service Officers Aroused to Unusual Activity by Registered Mail Robbery.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Government secret service operatives and postoffice inspectors are spreading a drag net through the middle west today for the thieves who took the contents of three bags of registered mail in the down town district yesterday afternoon.

The daring theft of the sacks which contained registered mail, supposed to be worth many thousand dollars, caused a sensation at the Chicago postoffice. The sacks were stolen from a wagon that made the rounds of the Stock Exchange, Masonic Temple and South Water street branch postoffices.

The driver of the wagon was A. Tardy, and he is said to be missing. The number in West Van Buren street, where he gave an address, is a vacant lot. Tardy is one of the mail wagon drivers supplied by H. J. Stager, who has a contract with the government to furnish all wagons and drivers for the work of the Chicago postoffice.

When Tardy failed to return to the postoffice after one of his afternoon trips for the collection of mail, an investigation was begun with the result that the abandoned wagon was found near a south side railroad station. Three sacks which had contained mail were found ripped open in the wagon and their contents had been taken.

LABOR FEDERATION HAS QUIET SESSION

Old Officers Seem Acceptable and Organization's Policy Will Be Continued.

Seattle, Nov. 11.—When the American Federation of Labor assembled today for its second day's session it was ready to take up and debate the reports of committees. The new method of combining all the annual reports into one, and that issued by the executive council, is said to have accomplished a saving of two days in the work of the convention. Resolutions submitted by delegates were referred at once to the committee on resolutions, without even being read by title. Father Dietz, of Milwaukee, is a delegate to the convention.

So far there has been no outward sign of revolt against the old officers of the convention, and a continuance of the policy that has been followed for years.

Fort Worth, Texas, has asked for the next convention, but it virtually has been decided to hold no meeting next year, and assemble in San Francisco in 1915.

GOVERNOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Residents of Badger State Have Greatest Reason for Profound Thankfulness.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—Governor McGovern's proclamation designates Nov. 27 as Thanksgiving day.

"As the year 1913 approaches its close," says the proclamation, "it is manifest that no state in the Union has greater reason for profound thankfulness than has Wisconsin. Sound health, profitable employment and abundant success have attended our people throughout the year. There has been no catastrophic flood or storm. Instead, the good spirits of sunshine and rain have hovered over our land, covering the earth with natural beauty and insuring to the farmer abundant crops. The arteries of trade are pulsing with a full flow of rich fruits of the soil and the valuable products of our shops, factories and mills. Truly, our cup of gladness and contentment is running over. Providence, therefore, in conformity with established custom and in accordance with the proclamation of the president of the United States, I, Francis E. McGovern, governor of the state of Wisconsin, do hereby designate the twenty-seventh day of November, 1913, as Thanksgiving day, and I recommend that our people meet on that day in their accustomed places of worship and offer thanksgiving and praise to God who has so carefully guarded us over us through the year and made our labors fruitful."

CANAL WILL OFFER GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Director of Pan-American Union Talks on South American Situation to Madison Students.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union at Washington, protested against the Latin-American countries and their people becoming "wall flowers" when American students are all that is needed to make them follow America's leadership rather than Europe's. Mr. Barrett, who was formerly United States minister to Spain and to Latin America, addressed the student body of the University of Wisconsin yesterday afternoon in the first all-university convocation of the year.

Mr. Barrett's talk was a message to university men and women to be ready for the Panama canal and for our Pan-American responsibilities. He said that the greatest of the United States is with the countries of South America, which he said are willing to trust and follow this nation's leadership if it is preferred in the right spirit.

The speaker presented astounding figures to show the vastness of the Argentine and other South American countries. Buenos Aires, the capital of Argentina, is the fourth largest city on the hemisphere, with 1,500,000 people. The constitutions of all the 21 countries in South America were written after that of the United States.

Mr. Barrett was the first minister from this country to Panama. He said that the canal would have been built without the self-sacrificing service of American nurses in combating malaria, yellow fever and death in the tropical jungles.

He had to go up against the horrors which those men and women had to go through in the opening days of the building of the canal, said Mr. Barrett, who has seen service as a war correspondent. It was not until after all danger was past that a single woman asked to return to the United States. The United States has been able to do this because of the building of the canal and commerce the tropics in ten years, and it is doubtful whether Europe could do it in 100 years.

GATHERING DATA ON MINIMUM WAGE LAW

Industrial Commission Conducts Investigation Preparatory to Enforcement of New Law.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—In order to have all available information at hand when the minimum wage law for women and minors becomes effective next July, the industrial commission has already detailed three women deputies to the commission to gather statistics. The inquiry is now being pushed in Milwaukee. Information is already collected for the city of Madison. In order that they may be no suspicion as to secret work, the representatives first of all have been to the establishment and obtain permission to talk to the women employees. The workers are then asked to fill out blanks, which give full information as to the number of hours worked and board, the mode of living and all possible data that would indicate the economic condition.

In the same manner the employer is asked to give information as to the number of hours worked, the number of days work in a year, rates of wages and scale of increase. The information now being gathered will be used by the commission in determining the basis of the law, and it is requested to make a specific investigation with the object of fixing a minimum wage.

In connection with the industrial commission's investigation the normal schools of the state have taken up an activity that promises to be beneficial. Each of the eight normal schools maintains a department of economics and sociology. The students of these departments have been granted permission to make investigations in the normal school centers. They will not be employed by the commission, nor will the commission be responsible for their efforts. They will, however, take their indirect instructions from the commission and will use the blank forms furnished by the commission in gathering their statistics. With the assistance of the work being done at the schools, the state will be in possession of more information regarding wages of female workers than is now in existence in any other state.

UNITED DAUGHTERS CONFEDERACY MEET

Called to Order by President of Organization in New Orleans Today.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11.—The annual general convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was called to order here this morning by Alexander White, of Paris, Tenn., president of the organization.

The attending members, several hundred in number, were welcomed by the mayor and other speakers in behalf of the city. The program for the gathering, arranged by the local chapters of the organization is quite interesting and elaborate and includes many pleasing social and entertainment features. The Grunewald Hotel is the headquarters of the convention and there the sessions will be held. One of the interesting features will be the consideration of a proposition by Mrs. W. D. Lamar, State President of the Georgia branch of the organization, to have resolutions condemning "The Southern States" in England, upon the ground that the book unjustly reflected upon the people of the south. At the close of the convention the delegates will make a pleasure trip to the Panama Canal in the palatial 5000-ton steamship Abnareguez of the United Fruit Company's "great white fleet," which will sail from this port on November 15.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy was organized at Nashville, Tenn., September 10, 1894, and has now 1,380 chapters in North America and Mexico, with an aggregate of more than 20,000 members.

The man gave his name as John Mitchell and said that he had no home and refused to give the police any information of his past.

The police are confident that the man is the advance guard of a band of store looters and he was sent to the city jail. The police are probably for looking the bookstore because of the valuable furs that have been added to the stock. Mitchell has been in the city three or four days and during this time he has been closely watched. It is stated that he has been in the habit of making Janesville a stopping place for several days, meeting others and the group suddenly disappear to play their depredations elsewhere, leaving behind no further investigation.

WASHINGTON POLICY STILL "HANDS OFF" IN MEXICAN CRISIS

UNITED STATES DESIRES POWERS TO ENDORSE ATTITUDE TAKEN ON SITUATION.

HUERTA LOSES GROUND

Dictator's Regime Nears Collapse, It Is Said, With the Withdrawal of Foreign Support.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Indications today were that the American policy toward Mexico, which it is hoped the nations of the world generally would follow, still was "hands off."

The general interpretation of the situation was that the United States, by giving foreign powers detailed information of its own determination to refuse to recognize the acts of the new Mexican congress, had indicated a desire that the powers generally refrain from financial dealings with the Huerta government.

SONORA GOVERNOR HELPS CARRANZA

Forsees Huerta's End.

So far as could be learned there has been no specific request for support by the powers, but there has been a plain intimation that the new congress may undertake the collapse of the Huerta regime inevitable if foreign aid be withheld.

With the intention to regard as illegal any loans or concessions the new congress may undertake, there has been distinct intimation that a policy of acquiescence by foreign governments would be gratifying to Washington. Without financial aid and with its machinery of government pronounced illegal, officials here expect to see a state of affairs that may force Huerta to eliminate himself.

The cabinet met again today with all members present except Secretary Wilson. The Mexican topic was foremost, the raising of the embargo on arms which has been urged upon the president and the cabinet by the secretaries, was discussed at length.

The movement is in accordance with an order issued last month by the war department providing that the fifth and second cavalry be relieved in the southern sector of the 15th and 10th from Fort Myer, Va. Fort Sheridan, Ill. Fort Leavenworth and Fort Bliss, Ellav, Va. Orders for the transfer of the 2nd and 5th cavalry to the new stations have not yet been issued. Only thirty men besides two signal corps companies remain at the post here.

Sends Warning.

London, Nov. 11.—A significant warning to President Huerta was issued today by the Westminster Gazette, the government newspaper. Commenting on President Asquith's anti-bull speech in which he made it plain that the anti-bull sentiment between England and the United States in regard to Mexico, the Gazette says:

"The idea that any valid election, and in the sense in which election of constitutional countries understand the word—can be held in Mexico is probably a diplomatic fiction, but the electoral test was of General Huerta's own choosing, and it is well to keep him reminded of his failure to conform to its result leaves all governments free to consider their act of recognition. Briefly, the limits of British action must be that the British government should not put itself in a position of making protests which in default of forcible action might be flouted and defied. But diplomacy has other sources than mere force and Provisional President Huerta may easily find that the attitude of this country is in a variety of ways a matter of great moment to him."

MILWAUKEE POLICE HOLD GOLDSWORTHY FOR LOCAL ASYLUM

Insane Patient Who Escaped a Month Ago Visits Lawyer's Office and is Found Out.

Word was received at the office of Sheriff Whipple, Monday night, that Colin W. Goldsworthy, insane patient who escaped from the county asylum for the incurable insane on Oct. 6, last, was being held by the Milwaukee police for the local authorities. It is probable that an officer from the sheriff's office of police's office will go to Milwaukee this afternoon to bring back the refugee.

According to the report received from Milwaukee, Goldsworthy held the opinion that if he were again examined by a medical commission he would be adjudged sane. With this view of bringing such a thing to pass the refugee walked into the law office of Attorney Thomas E. Leahy in the Wells building. He sought advice on a personal injury suit. When questioned Leahy learned from Goldsworthy the story of the latter's life and of his escape from the Janesville asylum. Knowing the alleged madman to be desperate from stories which circulated through the state at the time of his transfer from the state asylum at Madison, Leahy was cautious and immediately notified the police department that Goldsworthy, he believed, was an escaped madman. The police verified the belief and Rock County authorities were notified.

On Monday Goldsworthy put in an appearance at the attorney's office, willing to be again taken into custody and rushed back to Janesville. With Leahy as his counsel, he believes he can secure the freedom of the county asylum, which he wanted his commitment. Deputies Alec Ferdinand, Daniel Horvitz and Michael Thorn, acting on the advice of the attorney, placed Goldsworthy under arrest in Leahy's office. He was taken to the county jail, where he is being held until the arrival of Rock county officials.

Goldsworthy became unbalanced through brooding over a patent brick he had made and because of family troubles. His life became a series of misadventures. Every turn of the wheel finds him a loser. He is an expert stone mason. The alleged madman is strikingly intelligent, and speaks fluently of the facts which his claims have forced him behind the bars.

He originally lived in Mineral Point, moving from there to Beloit. In 1904 he was one of the best known teaming contractors in southern Wisconsin and bore a reputable character. He became acquainted with the police in a misadventure of justice, he says, which lodged his youngest boy, Adam, in jail for several hours. Called a vicious man by a policeman and laid out on a cell in jail by a blow from the patrolman's mace, Goldsworthy beat the patrolman unmercifully. He was then shunted to an unoppressive state by a round half dozen patrolmen.

"Since that later I was shocked at a story told by my daughter, who was resting behind the bars at the Milwaukee county jail here.

On all matters other than those pertaining to his inventions Goldsworthy appears strictly normal, and is considered as such by Attorney Leahy. He was committed to the state asylum at Madison in 1912 and remained there a year and a day, when he was transferred to the Rock county asylum as incurable.

Ready for His Fate. "I've been ground in the mill of experience until the grain, I think is fine enough," Goldsworthy said, "and if Almighty holds I need no more grinding, then let it come, I'm ready."

While in a cell at the Madison asylum Mrs. Goldsworthy instituted divorce proceedings. Goldsworthy has never learned whether she was granted a decree. Mrs. Goldsworthy was given the custody of the children. Goldsworthy claiming that she kidnapped two of them before he was adjudged insane.

"Since that later I was shocked at a story told by my daughter, who was resting behind the bars at the Milwaukee county jail here.

Mrs. D. Parker and Mrs. A. C. Campbell left this morning for Chicago for a two days' visit.

LINK AND PIN

Chicago & Northwestern Ry.
LARGE NUMBER OF MEN ARE LAID OFF IN WISCONSIN

Some two hundred and fifty men, including clerks, engine men, roundhouse men, and office force, were laid off last week on the Northern division of the Northwestern system. Slack times are coming, declare the railroad officials, and the decrease is scheduled to be made with a minimum of about 30 per cent. The other roads are taking up this same plan, and within a short time many may be out of work throughout the country.

Engineer, Casteland is on the yard switch engine number 167 again. Effective, November 18th, the station on the Sparta line of the Madison division, heretofore known as Lowell, is changed to North Lowell.

The Chicago shops are working but few days per week. A layoff is about due, according to rumor, and it is hard to find work in the Chicago railroad yards, on any road.

Several from here plan on attending the annual ball to be given November 20th in the Illinois hall, Chicago, under the auspices of the Chicago Lodge No. 275.

Contrary to the plans made by the road to lay off men on the Northern division and its whereabouts, vacancies are open for eight engineers and eight firemen. These vacancies are mostly prevalent on the Madison division near Baraboo.

JANITOR OF GRANT SCHOOL DISLOCATES HIS SHOULDER

C. W. Brooks, janitor of the Grant school, while standing on a ladder, hanging up a picture in one of the rooms of the school early this morning, fell a distance of about ten feet, dislocating his left shoulder. Dr. James Mills was called and took him to his home on Terrace street, where the dislocation was reduced and he was made as comfortable as possible. It will be some time before Mr. Brooks will be able to use his arm.

ROCK COUNTY BOARD COMMENCES REGULAR NOVEMBER SESSION

Most of Afternoon Given Up to Reading of Communications and Reference to Committees.

With an attendance of thirty-five members and a quorum present, the November session of the Rock County Board of Supervisors was opened by Chairman A. C. Gray of Evansville shortly after two o'clock this afternoon. The first business to be presented to the board was a communication from the town board of Lima announcing the appointment of C. A. Hunt as supervisor from that town to succeed M. M. Gleason, whose ill health makes it impossible for him to continue the duties of the office. A large part of the afternoon was devoted to the reading of communications to the board for their reference to the appropriate committees.

A petition from the village of Milton requesting that designated streets be placed on the map of county highways was referred to Committee No. 6.

William Miller, overseer at the Rock County Poor Farm and Asylum presented a claim for $500 for damages which he alleges to have received as a result of a fall caused by a slipper floor not properly safeguarded with sawdust or other covering. The accident occurred on December 2. He was carrying a quarter of beef from the cooler to the meat block and slipped on the greasy floor, severely injuring his right arm, hand and index finger, the latter of which he maintains was permanently disabled and may have to be amputated. The claim was referred to Committee No. 2.

The County Clerk and County Treasurer reported as unpaid personal property taxes with interest thereon totaling $1491.34, the entire amount being from the city of Janesville. The matter was referred to the Committee on Finance. The same officers reported the sale of all tax certificates in the town of Avon.

County Clerk Lee called the attention of the board to the laws affecting counties, among them the laws as to guide boards, mothers' pensions, county boards of education, mileage and per diem of county boards, and county agricultural experts.

Announcement was made that State Highway Engineer, A. R. Hirst, will address the Board on November 14 on the state aid law. P. M. Balsley, of the engineering staff, will also be present to give information on the workings of the law.

Engineer Hirst reported that of the four men who took the recent examination for County Highway Commissioners, those who passed were C. E. Moore, Frank Roan, and P. M. Balsley. Their standings being in the order named. The county board must elect one of the two highest to the office.

SERGEANT HOEY HAD RELATIVES IN CITY

Mrs. Ed. Amerpohl was Cousin of Young Man Accidentally Shot and Killed at Milwaukee.

Mrs. Edw. Amerpohl received news of the death of her cousin, Sergeant Harry E. Hoey, who was accidentally shot and killed by Corporal Schmidt during practice in Milwaukee at the company's range on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Hoey passed away at the Emergency hospital at 11:45 on Sunday morning. Hoey had been married but five weeks to Miss Lula Smith of Beloit. Mr. and Mrs. Amerpohl attended the wedding at this city. Mrs. Hoey was at the bedside of her husband until he died. She bore up bravely and begged Captain Sullivan to release Corporal Schmidt, who was confined in the Central station since the shooting.

The accidental shooting of Hoey occurred, according to witnesses, when Private Harry Weaver accidentally struck the arm of Schmidt when he had his finger on the trigger of his own rifle, and the discharge followed. Sergeant Hoey's body was shipped to Beloit today and on Wednesday a military funeral will be held. A special escort of Co. B will accompany the body. The Reverend Theo. Leach of Beloit, Hoey's former pastor, will officiate, and several from this city will attend the funeral.

Williams, pastor of the church, conducted the services in the presence of a large gathering of friends and bereaved relatives. A short song service was given by Mesdames Jacobs and Nichols. The pallbearers were J. L. Hay, P. Hurd, Dr. E. Loomis, E. W. Lowell, S. C. Burnham, and C. E. Blum. Burial was made at Oak Hill cemetery.

Among those from out of the city who were here for the services were Mrs. Theodore Conant and son, George Conant, of St. Louis, and the Rev. Theodore Rayville of Kenosha.

Charles Dutton.

Funeral services for the late Charles Dutton, whose remains arrived in this city from Texas, yesterday, were held at the grave in Oak Hill cemetery this afternoon at 3:30, the Rev. Williams officiating.

Henry MacGowan.

Henry MacGowan, a former resident of Rock county and a respected citizen of Clear Lake, Iowa, died at his home Sunday evening, November 2, after a lingering illness of nearly a year.

He was of Scotch parentage and grew up under the discipline and in the faith of the old Scotch Presbyterian church. He was a man of unquestioned integrity, generous, helpful and hospitable. The community has lost a good man and the church a faithful member.

Mr. MacGowan was born in New York City, April 21, 1851, and when one year old moved with his parents to Johnston Center, Iowa, where he resided until he was 29 years of age. He moved to Clear Lake, Iowa, in 1880. He engaged in the boot and shoe business there and carried it on successfully for several years.

Later he purchased a farm north of the city known as the Glenview farm. In 1896 he moved into Clear Lake and built the home which he occupied at the time of his death. He was a city official for a number of years, having the care and oversight of the streets and roadways.

Whatever line of work he undertook it was always well done. On August 25, 1881, he was united in marriage to Ella C. Palmer of Clear Lake, Iowa. To this union was born four children, a son dying in infancy and a daughter, Blossom, at the age of four and one-half years. He leaves to mourn a wife, a son, James Palmer MacGowan of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. M. A. MacGowan, a teacher in the State Center high school, two sisters, Mary and Anna, residing in the old home in Johnston Center, Wis., a brother, Rev. J. W. MacGowan, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Langford, South Dakota.

Mr. MacGowan united with the United Presbyterian church of Rock Prairie, Wis., at the age of 17 years. In 1881 he became a member of the Congregational church, joining by letter from the old home church. He had always been a faithful and consistent member. He hailed the first steps for the present Congregational church at Clear Lake.

Mr. MacGowan was a kind and loving husband and father. His neighbors can testify to his true unselfish kindness in times of sickness and death in the midst.

The funeral was held at his late home last Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. W. A. Marzoff, pastor of the Congregational church.

Harold Wirth.

Harold Wirth, the late year old son of R. Wirth of this city, passed away early this morning at two forty-five o'clock at his uncle's home, 1020 North bluff street. Harold was born in Beloit, Wisconsin, the 9th of September. Besides his father, he leaves to mourn his loss, one sister and one brother.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at eleven o'clock from his uncle's home. Interment will be made at the Grove cemetery, in the town of Center.

Thomas S. Mahon.

Funeral services for the late Thomas S. Mahon, who died in Chicago Sunday evening of heart trouble, will be held at the grave in the Oak Hill cemetery Wednesday afternoon, immediately following the arrival of the remains from Chicago tomorrow. Twelve forty-five over the Northwestern road. Rev. McKinney will officiate.

Michael Holleran, 564 Railroad street, passed away last evening drowsy, being the cause of his death. He leaves one son, Michael, of this city, and two daughters of New York, to mourn his loss. Funeral services will be announced later, following a reply from the daughters in the east.

Glimpse of Mr. Stephens.

Speaking of Alexander H. Stephens' thinness, perhaps it was never better characterized than by the man in Washington who said that when he was standing on the steps of the capitol an empty back drove up and Alexander H. Stephens got out.

Evidently a Genius.

He put every cent he had into an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show, and at the end of four weeks his treasurer, with $100 to the good, skipped out during the night. So he said to himself: "I'll catch the cat," and set the bloodhounds they had in the show on his trail. "Catch him," he said, in speaking of it later. "Sure they did. They caught up with him, and he put chains around their necks, and started another show."

When I get Christmas presents from some folks I allus feel as if they'd left a string in the house to tie a return package to.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF IT IS FALLING OR FULL OF DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies, Men! Here's the best 25 cents you ever spent—Don't wait! Apply a little tonight.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp which, if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use when you will actually see a lot of fine, new hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

"A bill has been introduced in congress providing for government ownership of the telephone and telegraph. This particular bill may or may not die in the committee. It probably will. So also, President Ripley's prediction of government ownership of the transportation lines, and Commissioner Thorne's argument in favor of the same, may soon be forgotten. But surely coming events cast their shadows before, and these things foreshadow an issue which is behoving thinking people to look squarely in the face.

"Government ownership and operation of these utilities is a guarantee of bad service and costly management, but perhaps the most serious menace lies in the political phase. The latest Interstate Commerce Commission report shows that in 1911 there were in round numbers 1,700,000 railroad employees in the United States. The government data of telephones and telegraph companies are not yet available, therefore the latest official figures are for 1907. But even then the government returns showed 172,000 employees. It is not surprising outside the lines of conservatism to estimate the employees of these three industries now at 2,000,000.

"Put this large army in the government service, and is there not danger that in its hands it will hold the balance of power? Would the politician be a politician if he did not court and fawn upon such a source of political control? Would not the politicians who are in power and anxious to stay in, as well as those who are out and anxious to get in, bargain with it, agreeing to favor legislation to further its private interests in exchange for its support? And it is not to be presumed that such a political organization would for moment sleep upon an opportunity to advance its own welfare at the expense of the public.

"Then, too, what political patronage would there be in the control of a government payroll twice as large as the present expenditures of the government!

"Government ownership may seem the solution of some of the present problems that confront the country; but it is a dream that would end in a rude awakening. Nothing could be more destructive to the rule of the people than the creation of a class which, by itself, is able to dictate political control and shape legislation, not for the general good, but for its own selfish ends."

This timely warning from the Wall Street Journal, points out one of the grave dangers of public ownership, just now so popular. The entering wedge is contained in the bill referred to, now before congress. It is simply another evidence of the socialistic trend of the times.

Public ownership is an old world theory, and while it may be adapted to countries under monarchical rule, it has no place in a land which boasts of equal rights and equal opportunity. The American congress can afford to grow slow in considering this proposition.

MOTORS AND RAILWAYS.

Contrary to the general supposition that the increase of automobiles throughout the country would mean a decrease in railway travel, it appears that the roads have been benefited by them. An exchange in commenting upon this fact, says:

"Witnessing the unceasing procession of motor cars along the main roads, or reading the colossal totals of the passengers they carry, one might easily reach the conclusion that they had set up a rivalry to the railroads and had diverted travel to an extent that would be perceptible in statistics if not in revenue. The facts are quite different. There is a well-recognized law, even if not quite definitely worked out, that the addition of new means of transporting people from place to place operates to aid rather than to diminish travel by the older method. It is not perceptible, for example, that the street cars of the towns are less crowded because of the use of the motors by the men who live in the suburbs and go to and from business in them. The easier the means of travel and the more generously supplied, the greater seems to be the disposition to travel.

"But the automobile has gone further, if the testimony of railroad men is to be accepted; it has actually created new business for the railroads. In the Chicago correspondence of the Wall Street Journal, Vice President Garrett of the Northwestern railroad is quoted as saying that automobile platforms have been built at 100 of that company's passenger stations and that others will be built as the demand appears. The automobiles have carried thousands of people into the country and they have been so attracted by country life that they have moved to the farms. The increase of country population resulting from this movement and not confined to the people who ride in the motors, brings added business to the railroads.

"If it be true of the western roads that they are being helped by the finding of country homes by city dwellers, it must be true in larger degree in New England. The motor cars have revealed the charms of the country to city people to an extent that has already brought practical results in permanent finding of homes at considerable distances from the big towns. New Englanders are beginning to know New England and to find that it offers irresistible attractions, not alone for the day's or the week's tour, but for residence. Evidence of the substantial result is supplied in the passing of old farms to new owners, the rebuilding of the farm house or its supplanting with a modern country home, and the example the motor owners set is being followed by the less wealthy, who are led along the same road to a better way of living than the city gives. The railroads are the incidental gainers. "Their testimony to the growth of their business from this source is cheering in its further establishment of the fact that the workers in the towns are finding the country the most satisfactory abode."

Judge Maxfield has thrown the fear of a sentence at hard labor into the hearts of the local police court habitués and they will soon be as scarce as hen's teeth around Janesville. The climax came Monday when a wife had her husband arrested for non-support and then when he had been sentenced to a year's labor, turned round and hired him from the sheriff to conduct a tailor shop for her. This is poetic justice for the man must work whether he will or not. If he doesn't he will have a taste of bread and water at the jail to see how it seems.

This is the period when the city veggs are making their way back to the haunts of vice in the larger cities, and that he may have what is called his "fall" money, he is making a few last raids on homes to secure the needed funds. Janesville has been visited by some of these gentry and more are liable to follow. When "jobs" can be pulled off in safety and a clean "getaway" made the word is quickly passed around to others of the "tribe" who immediately assemble to "pluck" a good thing.

The Civic League has undertaken a great work in Janesville and should have the support of every citizen interested in the betterment of the local conditions. Of course Janesville is not like Chicago or some manufacturing centers where there is a large percentage of foreigners, but still there are many things that can be accomplished for the betterment of conditions generally. The ladies at the head of the league are most earnest in their work and can accomplish wonders in time.

Some months ago the slot machines and dice games were barred from the city. Recently the dice games started again and now the slot machines are making their reappearance. There should be no favorites shown in the business of running the city. If it is fair for one to violate the orders then why not let all do so unrestricted?

PRESS COMMENT.

No Place for Referendum. The authority of a vessel captain on board a ship must be absolute or else there is no safety for either crew or passengers. The proposed bill which Mr. Taft vetoed disturbs this considerably. The La Follette additions only make the original measure more drastic. Afterthoughts. Another demonstration of the high-cost of loving Missouri man sued for $25,000 for breach of promise.

Nowadays the real value of a great baseball player is judged almost entirely by his literary style. It is about time to return to your neighbor the lawnmower you borrowed last spring. We care not who writes our nation's songs, so long as we do not have to listen to them on a phonograph.

One of the great disappointments in life is to find a piece of chicken in a chicken pie. It is the spice of life. It is a pleasure occasionally to bite down on a new barber's thumb. Kentucky parishioner insulted a pastor by sending him a gallon of fine old moonshine. But, did the pastor swallow the insult?

Man wants but little here below. But Fate gives him the laugh, For soon he finds he has to go And take a better half.

According to Uncle Abner. They say they haven't discovered perpetual motion, but, by giner, the cash register in the Golden Nugget saloon comes pretty high it 'long toards 9 o'clock at night. Only one post wrote "Beautiful Snow," but a good many of 'em have eaten it. You kin always tell a feller that ain't got much polish, for his boots are never shined. Spectacles don't denote intellectuality no more than an automobile denotes great riches or pertumery denotes a cold plunge every morning. The heathen Chinese ain't nobody's fool. T. Robert Feavey ordered seven high falutin' dishes in a Chink restaurant and they was all potaters.

The biggest bore I know of is the feller that comes around and brags that he had his coal bin filled last May. So long as a woman has got a good willow plume that kin be dyed, she kin always have a new hat by spending 35 or 40 cents. Somebody has stole the rope off'n the engine house bell in our village and now when there is a fire everybody knows it exceptin' the Wide Awake Hose Company.

Couldn't Afford It. A woman went into a newspaper office and wished to advertise for her husband, who had disappeared. When they told her it would cost two dollars an inch, she went out saying that it would break her up at that rate, as her husband was over six feet tall.

PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED IN HONOR OF ANNIVERSARY. ## ADVISES MORE CARE IN ADDRESSING MAIL

Postmaster C. L. Valentine Receives Letter from First Assistant Postmaster General.

Postmaster Charles L. Valentine has received a letter from First Assistant Postmaster General Daniel C. Roper requesting his cooperation in an effort to relieve the postal service of the burden imposed by the growing evil of incompletely and improperly addressed mail. Delivery of letters, especially in large cities, is frequently delayed and oftentimes made impossible by the omission of an important part of the address, such as the street number or the room number when addressed to an office building. Not infrequently the name of the street is omitted, only the name of the postoffice and state being given.

Another source of trouble is the practice of giving an address at the intersection of two streets without giving the location of the corner, for in some large cities a number of carriers' routes may terminate at that point, or it may be the dividing line between the respective territories of the main postoffice and a station, or two stations, and in the absence of the notation "N. E. N. W." etc., the distributors are unable to determine to which carrier the mail should be thrown.

Postmasters are requested to advise their patrons that complete and accurate addresses are essential to prompt mail delivery and that they should cooperate with the department to the extent of seeing that all mail originated by them bears a street number, or room in case of an office building, in addition to name of city and state.

Hereafter when delivery of mail is delayed on account of insufficient address that fact should be stamped on face of mail and rubber stamps for this purpose will be provided. Insurance of all parcel post packages is advised by Postmaster Valentine. The fee is only five cents for all packages up to $25 in value and ten cents for packages of greater value and the records kept insure the return of the package to the sender in case of non-delivery.

MISS VAN BUREN CRITICIZES ATTITUDE OF PARENTS TO-WARD THEIR OFF-SPRING.

PLAN JUVENILE LEAGUE

Adjunct to Women's Civic Society Will Seek to Instill Idea of Service in Minds of Youngsters.

"American parents of the present day are placing too much emphasis upon their children's social pleasures; they are overindulging them and they are overlooking them in an overindulgence in social entertainment," declared Miss Maud Van Buren of Oatonna, Minnesota, chairman of the juvenile department of the American Civic Association, in her address at the city hall assembly last evening. About sixty men and women were present to hear the lecture, which was given under the auspices of the local civic league. Those present endorsed Miss Van Buren's plan to establish a juvenile civic league in Janesville and the club women will take measures to perfect the plan at once under Miss Van Buren's direction.

Miss Van Buren's subject was "Civic Work With Children." She emphasized the urgent necessity of closer home interests for the young folks to offset the prevailing influences of the street and the questionable social functions which are all too numerous. "In homes providing wholesome recreation and ample 'busy work' the problem of the street does not intrude itself," she declared. "A home is not a mere shelter for the family but it is the center around which all the interests of the child should revolve. Parents are failing far short of their responsibilities and are building sorrow for themselves and unhappiness for their children when they shift these responsibilities into teachers and social workers."

"In our zeal for the amusement and entertainment of our children we are overlooking the virtue of industry and with our modern home improvements and the centralization of industries that once belonged to the home, children are being cheated out of their natural rights to work and to serve."

Need Wholesome Work. Although gymnasiums and playgrounds are essential to a wholesome development, and the speaker insisted that no city can afford to neglect them, she was equally emphatic in her assertion that an hour spent in the best equipped gymnasium and playground in the world is of infinite physical development than the same time spent in wholesome labor on the home plot, whether for reasons of economy or improvement.

In the old time adage "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," it is true today as it ever was, said Miss Van Buren, "but all play and no work makes the child a restless if not a useless citizen. All that America asks for the future is that the prodigal gifts of the children of today shall be better citizens than their forebears. Good citizenship means service, not words, a consideration of the needs of the mass rather than the individual. In short, good citizenship is unselfishness, least thought of one's self, more thought of one's neighbors."

Children Need Attention. The speaker stated that the civic spirit was never more active than now. It is to get this spirit in practical working order, a task the civic organizations have set themselves; but she believed that although these organizations have accomplished a great work, too much of their time and energy and means have been expended on those of us whose ideals and habits are formed. Vastly more attention should be given the children who are the future of the nation, who will one day have the control of the affairs of state and nation. Experience is the only way in which municipal lessons may be taught effectively and lasting, and with high ideals placed before the child, the civic organizations directed for civic organizations we shall have in the future a citizenship of a higher type than that we represent.

Miss Van Buren strongly urged the organization of a junior civic league in Janesville, a league working for its main object of the creation of civic interests by the sanitation and beautification of the home plot. She contended that a child's loyalty to his city grows with his efforts to make his home a more lovable place.

MUST NOT PROVIDE PRISONERS LIQUOR

Saloonkeepers Held Responsible by Law—No Provision for Official Notification.

In the absence of any provision in the law for official notification, saloonkeepers and others as well will have to be on their guard against the sale or giving of intoxicating liquor to prisoners serving time under the Huber labor commitment law. Section 62, of chapter 625, laws of 1913, reads:

"Any person who shall knowingly furnish to such convicted person, and any such convicted person who shall use any intoxicating liquor or drinks shall on conviction be punished by commitment to the county jail at hard manual labor for not less than thirty days and not more than six months. It is to be noted that no alternative penalty of a fine is provided."

There are now according to Sheriff Whipple over one hundred who are serving time under labor commitment, and although it requires some effort to keep them in mind, liquor dealers will do well to draw up a list of the men as they are sentenced, together with their terms, and become familiar with it. It is true that a barkeeper who sells to the city might knowingly sell to a person under sentence, but the law would not apply in such cases. There would, however, be no excuse for a repetition of the offense, and it is probable that if the proprietor or bartender knew the man sold liquor was a prisoner was present at the time of sale, the proprietor would be held responsible for the sale.

The interest paid is 3.1 per cent. To the fact that the county levied $15,000 more last year to make bonds due to be paid in 1913, and the increase in the amount of interest received this year. Bids for the county deposits during the coming year were filed with the county clerk last evening. They will be passed upon by the County Board of Supervisors.

SELECT DEBATERS IN FIRST TRYOUT

Three High School Students Definitely Chosen to Represent School in Beloit College League.

Three debaters to represent the local high school in the debates to be conducted during the coming winter under the auspices of the Beloit college debating league, were definitely chosen in a preliminary tryout at the high school assembly room last evening. Out of eleven speakers the three who were honored were Alton Dearborn, Carl Schoof and Karl Frick. Three other debaters who will also represent the school will be chosen from the following young men who also competed last evening: George Spohn, Russell Smiley, Raymond Barnes, Victor Hemming and Stanley Horwood. The other three contestants were Leland Hyzer, Herbert Brownell and Sherwood Sheldon.

Seven of the eleven speakers spoke on the affirmative side of the question: Resolved, that the literary test is the most desirable, for further restricting immigration into the United States.

The speeches of the entire eleven young men showed careful preparation and thoughtful study. Dearborn spoke with the same strength that characterized his successful record of last year. Smiley showed a disposition for logical argument; Frick and Schoof demonstrated their oratorical ability; Hemming and Barnes presented clear-cut arguments with creditable delivery; Spohn and Horwood proved vigorous speakers and emphasized the important points of the issue.

The judges were Hon. John M. Whitehead, H. C. Buell, J. T. Shaffer, and G. W. Curtis. Over a hundred students were present for the tryout.

LOCAL MARKETS.

Complaint is being made by the Janesville grocers that no potatoes are being brought to the market by the Rock county farmers. In spite of the high prices, seventy and seventy-five cents per bushel, the growers still insist on holding their products. The dealers are forced to import potatoes from other sections of the state, thereby increasing the cost to the consumers. At present the dealers are offering what stock they have at ninety cents.
Excellent grape fruit is on the market at present and a large sale is reported. They are selling from eight to ten cents apiece. Eggs are still scarce, the cold storage brand being the only brand that is plentiful on the market and even this brand is selling at unreasonable prices.
Interest is being taken in the effect upon the shipment of foreign, especially South American beef, into this country under the free tariff in lowering the price of meat from the trust perch. Experts claim that a downward fall is sure, but that it will be some time before enough can be shipped in to fight the packers. Others maintain the beef barons have cornered the South American product at the present time and the public will derive little benefit from the democratic tariff.

Founded 1870.
GEO. L. PULLEN, Pres.

Nov. 11, 1913.—The storm in the northeastern states has started down the St. Lawrence valley, and is less intense than it was yesterday. It was attended by continued snow and high winds in the lower lake region yesterday morning as far south as Montgomery and Charleston. The barometric depression in western Canada has reached Saskatchewan and is attended by light rains and warmer weather in the northern Plains and South Atlantic states this morning.

Wagon With Sails.
In 1622 one of the wonders to be seen at The Hague was a wagon or a ship or a combination of both. A traveler of that time wrote: "This engine bath wheels and sails, will hold above twenty people and goes with the wind, being drawn or moved by nothing else, and will run, the wind being good, above fifteen miles an hour upon the even hard sands."
Privilege of Lady Mayoress.
Among the privileges enjoyed by the lady mayoress of London during her husband's year of office is that of entree at court. Instead of being compelled to take her place among the ordinary guests, titled and untitled, at court functions, she enters the palace by a separate entrance, and is received by royalty before any of the other guests.
Present-Day Humor.
Taken all in all the humor of the present day is remarkable for two qualities, one is its cleanliness, the other is its optimism. Most of the professional humorists are professional optimists, and choice words of cheer are due to most of those who enter into such eager rivalry to tickle the public ribs—and there are dozens of them, ticklers as well as ribs.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WITH YOUR BACK AGAINST THE WALL.

HOW many people go through life without ever knowing half the force there is in them, just because adversity never comes to drag it out. Many a man astonishes his friends, and most of all, himself, when he shows what he can do when his back is pushed against the wall.

A friend of mine had a collie dog. He was a wonderfully intelligent animal. He would bring in the coat with the crooked horn when so ordered, or round out half a dozen sheep from the flock, or do any of the marvelous sheep-dog tricks which stagger the credulity of all except those who know these wonderful beasts. But there was one thing he could not do. He could not, or rather would not, fight. If he saw another dog coming down the road, he would desert his master and run home, with his tail between his legs.

Now his master, being a wise man, conceived a wise idea. He decided he would see what Bobbie could do if he had his back up against the wall; and so, one day, when Bobbie started to skulk away at the sight of another dog his master took him by the scruff of the neck and held him until the other dog was upon him. Then Bobbie had to fight and he fought, and in no time he had licked that other dog to a frazzle.

Bobbie's master, the owner of the other dog, and the other dog himself, were all surprised, but Bobbie was the most surprised of all. Nor was that the end of it. The coward was gone forever. Bobbie is now the champion of the village.

That's life. A few human beings will put forth their utmost force and efficiency of their own accord, but most men have to be pushed against the wall to show what stuff they are made of.

A newspaper man was offered a fine job with a fixed salary by a magazine. He took the position, began to work, and to do so slowly. At the end of the year he lost his job. He tried to get back his old place on the newspaper and couldn't even do this. He had an expensive wife and children and no money. His back was hard against the wall. He had to do good work or starve. He did it. Today he is writing far better fiction than he ever wrote in his life.

Nobody welcomes adversity. Nobody likes to believe that he is going to be up against it. The thought of having your back pushed hard against the wall is alarming to all but the stoutest hearts, and yet that's what makes men—and women. My hand to the man with his back against the wall. Courage, comrade, next year you'll be thanking God for the adversity which pushed you there and gave you a chance to find the stuff that was in you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do you think about a widow who has children corresponding with a man who she knows is married and living with his wife?

I am very sorry to hear that there is such a case. I am sorry for the widow, because there is certain trouble ahead for her. The man won't have to suffer probably but the woman in such a case always must. It is a shame that the thought of her children, and the disgrace that will come to them should keep her from doing anything wrong.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a man of thirty-six for some time. He has a business of his own and is very anxious for us to get married. I love him dearly and he loves me, but as I am only twenty, do you think he is too old for me?

(2) Please give me a recipe for lemon pie with frosting. Z. Y. X. (3) If your nature is congenial, I don't see why you should not marry and be very happy. (4) Lemon pie: Make shell of pie crust first. For the filling: One cup sugar, two heaping teaspoons flour, grated rind and juice one lemon, yolks two eggs, one teaspoon butter, pinch of salt. Stir well, then pour over this mixture one pint boiling water. Set on stove in another vessel of boiling water until it thickens, then it is ready for the pie shell. For the frosting: Beat the whites of the two eggs to a stiff froth, add four tablespoons confectionery sugar, spread over top of pie and brown in oven.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) There is one young man who has been going with me four or five years. He says that he loves me very much, thinks if he can't marry me he will not have any girl at all, but I do not love him. Do you think I ought to marry him just for his happiness in the future—not mine?

I am in love with a young man who is engaged to another girl. What can I do to win this man's love? Do you think he could ever love me better than the girl he is engaged to?

(1) There is one thing that is absolutely necessary in marriage, if the two people are to get along together, and that is: Love on both sides. Don't marry any man you don't love, for you cannot make him any more happy than yourself.

(2) That man loves the other girl. She loves him. They have promised to marry each other. Do you want to come between them?

To Make a Hat Fit.

"Follow my advice, and your derby will stand any Woolworth or Flatiron gusts," said a Broadway business man to his companion, as the latter brushed his receding lid with his coat sleeve. "When I buy a new hat I always heat the band over a gas jet, put it on my head and let it cool there. Result—perfect fit. Try it!" —New York Tribune.

The Kitchen Cabinet

MY friend, it would be better if to those we love we gave tender words while they were with us than to say them after the grave!

Those who die no longer need them, and the words they longed to know while they lived are only wasted on the cold, deaf ear below.

SOME "BEST" RECIPES.

Here are a few good dishes gathered from various sources, which may be suggestive if one is not able to follow exactly the ingredients or proportions.

Princess Salad.—Chop a cup of apple and two cups of cucumbers, a cupful of pecans; mix with a cup green peas freshly cooked or canned. Scoop out the centers from eight tomatoes. Arrange the tomatoes on lettuce, use a little of the pulp with the salad mixture; add dressing and fill the tomatoes.

Combination Salad.—Chop six apples with a stalk of celery, half of a small cabbage and a small can of pineapple. Add a package of raisins, and mix all together. For dressing, use a quarter of a cup of vinegar diluted with equal parts of water and three well beaten eggs cooked until thick in a double boiler, beating all the time.

Henrietta Pudding.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, add a cupful of sugar, a cupful of grated apple, a cupful of seedless raisins, a cup of blanched and chopped almonds, two tablespoons of citron, a teaspoonful each of allspice, cinnamon, baking powder, a fourth of a teaspoon of cloves and three-fourths of a cup of grated rye bread, a bit of lemon peel. Mix all together and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a buttered mold and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve with cream and sugar.

One Egg Mocha Cake.—Cream two tablespoons of butter, add three-fourths of a cup of sugar, the yolk of an egg, three-fourths of a cup of milk, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of vanilla, a cup of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder and two squares of chocolate, melted, and the beaten white of an egg. Fill the layers with a cupful of powdered sugar mixed with two tablespoons each of coffee and cocoa, two tablespoons of butter and a half teaspoonful of vanilla.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

White handkerchiefs which have become yellow can be made snow white by soaking them in pipeclay and water for twenty-four hours.

Stained towel, tablecloth, and napkins may be readily washed out if borax is put in the water.

A small quantity of salt put into the whitewash will make it stick better.

To clean piano keys, rub over with alcohol.

Suet Pudding.—One cup of finely chopped suet, one cup of molasses, one cup of milk, three cups of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one and one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add the molasses and milk to the suet; combine the mixtures. Turn into a buttered mold and steam for three hours. Serve with sterling sauce. Raisins and currants may be added.

Sterling Sauce.—One-half cup of butter, one cup of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla or two tablespoonsful of wine, four tablespoonsful of cream or milk. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually, and the milk, and flavoring drop by drop to prevent curdling.

Sweet Potatoes, Southern Style.—Take six medium sized sweet potatoes, remove from the oven, and cut in halves lengthwise, and scoop out inside. Mash, add two tablespoonsful of butter, and cream to moisten. Season with salt and sherry wine. Refill skins and bake five minutes in a hot oven.

Scrambled Eggs.—Five eggs, one-half cup of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper, two tablespoonsful of butter. Beat the eggs slightly with a silver fork; add the salt, pepper, and milk. Heat the omelet pan, put in butter, and when it is melted turn in the mixture. Cook until of creamy consistency, stirring and scraping from the bottom of the pan.

Rice Pudding.—Four cups of milk, one-third cup of rice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-third cup of sugar, grated rind of one-half lemon. Wash the rice, mix ingredients, and pour into buttered pudding-dish; bake three hours in a very slow oven, stirring three times during the first hour of baking to prevent the rice from settling.

Pralines.—One and seven-eighths cups of powdered sugar, one cup of maple syrup, one-half cup of cream, two cups of hickory nut or pecan nut meat, cut in pieces.

Boil the first three ingredients until, when fried in cold water, a soft ball may be formed. Remove from the fire, and beat until of a creamy consistency; add the nuts, and drop from the tip of a spoon in small piles on a buttered paper, or mixture may be poured into a buttered tin and cut in squares, using a sharp knife.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People
BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

It isn't our capacity for earnings; it's our capacity for saving that gives us a bank account. Some men earn salaries that, one has a right to suppose, will make them immune from care and worry in their old age; still often we find this class homeless as the years go by, while his neighbor, whose earning capacity was little more than half, has raised a family and is comfortable.

There's a reason! To find it is not my purpose in this talk, but when a small salaried man is paying for a home; if you want to know what makes it possible, just see the woman in this case. There's the reason—his wife is making sacrifices to help him; a winner in the game; to help him prepare for the days when he can no longer go out and demand from the world his share of the maelstrom.

The ways of a woman are said to be often just understanding. This is never so clearly demonstrated as when we see the mother of a band of growing children take dad's old overcoat, or a skirt of the vintage of 1812 and fashion therefrom a coat dress for one of the wee daughters; a suit that will rank with the rest of the suits worn by the children of her age.

Some there are who will say: "It's cheaper to buy." But is it? Sit down and figure it up. You may be able to buy a cheaper suit, if your time is worth anything. Try it!

Domestic Science Department
PREPARING LUNCH TO APPEAL TO BOTH THE EYE AND PALATE.

Baskets or boxes are the convenient receptacles in which to pack the lunch. It is an easy matter to arrange separate space or compartments for each kind of food. Wrap sandwiches, cake, etc., in mixed paper. Substitute cream or brown bread for white bread. Have a jelly or cup custard occasionally. For lunches use the natural food products as much as possible—apples, apples, bananas, in fact, all fruits. Use dates, nuts, small cakes and consider the attractiveness of the lunch not more than the food, but certainly along with it.

There is one thing above all else that is the object of the lunch basket in a lunch basket and that is the sandwiches, so give these great thought and careful preparation. As a rule the bread should be from twelve to twenty-four hours old. Never warm or melt the butter, but beat until creamy with a small wooden spoon and just as though you were going to make a cake.

Cheese Sandwiches. Mash any soft cream cheese, or combine one-third Roquefort and cream cheese. Add finely chopped olives, nuts or pimientos in equal parts, or cream or cottage cheese and chopped parsley or chives all make fine fillings for sandwiches. Much seasoning and salt is required to make the filling just right, and that must be determined by the one who is making them.

Brown or entire wheat bread is the best bread to use with cheese fillings, and adds much to food value. Cream butter before adding to the cake, then it will spread evenly. If served plain, do not remove the crust.

John Cort's Feature Festival. headed by the renowned beauty, Lillian Russell, will be the attraction at the Myers Theater Tuesday, November 26. Miss Russell is to depict her daily routine perfecting perpetual youth, health and beauty. She will also display the latest fashionable gowns of Paris and London, and will render one or two of the songs that made her famous as the queen of comic opera. The newspapers have commented sensationally upon Miss Russell's so-called disrobing act, but the fair one merely discloses herself in outer garments—furs, coats, jackets, outing apparel, etc., donning and displacing these in her display of women's fashionable gowns. Mr. Cort declares that the Lillian Russell company is the costliest theatrical amuse-

Lost Watch Plowed Up. Over three years ago George Mitchell, the son of a farmer at Barney, Lincolnshire, England, was sent into a stubble field to take care of some pigs, and he was entrusted with his father's watch, which he lost. A week or so ago George happened to be in the same field with a boy friend, who discovered the lost watch. It was wound up, at once started, and is as good as ever, despite the fact that it has been buried for three years.

That Sore, Tight Chest!

Try this clean, white, soothing ointment. See how quickly it brings relief. MUSTEROLE does all that the old-fashioned mustard plaster used to do in the days of our grandmothers, but it does it without the blister!

Doctors and nurses frankly recommend MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, ment on tour this season in the United States. The salary of Miss Russell alone, amounts to more than the expense of conducting any sort of theatrical enterprise outside of legitimate grand opera. John Cort, the director of the organization, is a wise and wealthy owner of the fashionable Cort Theater in New York.

There are a dozen deeply contrasting specialty features that are associated with Miss Russell in Mr. Cort's organization—about forty celebrated artists, whose respective acts are accompanied by the company's own special orchestra.

A special train of eight Pullman cars will bring Miss Russell and her associate players to this city.

QUO VADIS PICTURES. Aside from its delightful qualities as an amusement enterprise, George Klein's splendid photo-drama "Quo Vadis" which is announced for Thursday at the Myers Theater beginning Thursday, November 20 with daily matinees, is doing a world of good as a time saver and neatly fits the demands of the present age. It would require two weeks of the average business man's time to read Henryk Sienkiewicz's original novel whereas the whole story with every essential detail is visualized with wonderful perfection in George Klein's photo-drama. The novel leaves much to the imagination whereas the photo-drama leaves nothing omitted that the eye and mind can compass. Many more novels will be produced in photo drama in the future and busy men can acquire a liberal education while passing a few pleasant hours.

That Sore, Tight Chest!
Try this clean, white, soothing ointment. See how quickly it brings relief. MUSTEROLE does all that the old-fashioned mustard plaster used to do in the days of our grandmothers, but it does it without the blister!

Doctors and nurses frankly recommend MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, ment on tour this season in the United States. The salary of Miss Russell alone, amounts to more than the expense of conducting any sort of theatrical enterprise outside of legitimate grand opera. John Cort, the director of the organization, is a wise and wealthy owner of the fashionable Cort Theater in New York.

There are a dozen deeply contrasting specialty features that are associated with Miss Russell in Mr. Cort's organization—about forty celebrated artists, whose respective acts are accompanied by the company's own special orchestra.

A special train of eight Pullman cars will bring Miss Russell and her associate players to this city.

HEAD COVERED WITH DRY SCALE

Hair Came Out. Head Itched and Bled. Could Not Attend School. Two Cakes of Cuticura Soap and One Box Cuticura Ointment Cured.

2700 Tamm Ave., St. Louis, Mo. — "My little daughter's head began with a dry harsh scale covering it. First it got a white scale over the top and then it got a dirty brown scab with pus under it. Her hair came out in less than a week and her head itched and bled. She had no rest. I had her wear a scarf all the time, it looked so badly. She was so sore and had such big brown scabs on her head that the teacher would not let her attend school.

"We took and had her treated for three months with no relief. She kept getting worse until I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap every third day and the Cuticura Ointment at night. After three days the scabs began to come off and new hair to come in. In three weeks her head was well of sores. Two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment completely cured her." (Signed) Mrs. Walter Rogers, Nov. 25, 1912.

COUNTY IS GAINER BY COMMITMENT LAW

Earnings of Prisoners Without Dependents During Last Quarter Total $230.22.

Rock county is profiting financially as well as morally through the diligent enforcement of the labor commitment law by Sheriff C. S. Whipple. He has turned over to the County Treasurer, F. P. Livermore earnings of prisoners without dependents for the last quarter the sum of $230.22. During this time the sheriff has paid out to those dependent upon prisoners for support more than $800. Had these men been committed to the jail under the old law the county would have been obliged to assist in the support of the families of most of them, and all of them would have suffered a measure of hardship. If the wages of prisoners continue in the same ratio throughout the year as they have the last quarter they will run over $4,000 and the county will receive from prisoners without dependents enough to pay the turnkey's salary twice over.

Health Restored by Eckman's Alternative

Glandular troubles, very frequently diagnosed by physicians as "Tuberculosis of the Glands," have been found to yield to Eckman's Alternative when other treatment did not bring relief. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which during the past fifteen years has brought about many recoveries even in a number of supposed hopeless cases. Read this:
277 Laurelton St., Phila., Pa.
"Gentlemen: In March, 1909, my doctor pronounced me a 'Tuberculous' of the Glands," and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alternative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a frightful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found it was invigorating, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued with it. It was a great relief. I was well, which was in November, 1910. On November 11, 1910, I started to work and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alternative to anyone who is suffering from glandular troubles."
JOSEPH B. WHITE.

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Chronic Asthma, Stomach Colds and in unbuilding the system. ## THE MARSHAL

By
MARY RAYMOND SHIPMAN
ANDREWS
Author of
The Perfect Tribute
The Better Treasure, Etc.

"It opened, that door there, and against the light I saw men crowding in the entry. They wore uniforms of bright colors, and swords hung at their sides, and on their heads were hats with trimmings of gold. Then I saw Napoleon. I knew him at once, though his figure was perhaps the smallest. One knows the lion from the common beasts. I stood quietly, remembering only that I must guard my son's children, and he spoke. With a step toward me he spoke in a kind voice, half smiling.

"Madame," he said, "will you let us use this room and this table for an hour. You shall not be disturbed in your work."
The grandmother stopped and lifted her hand to her head as if in pain. "Tiens! I hear his voice now!" she whispered, and the children started, as if expecting to catch a note of the tones that had sounded here—the tones that had carried across the world. The story went on.

"I made my courtesy to these great gentlemen as I had been taught, and I found myself saying quite easily to his majesty the Emperor, as easily as if I talked to Monsieur le Curé, to whom I was accustomed; that he was welcome; that I would serve him gladly if he wished to command me. And then I let them. There was that about the great Emperor which made one happy to be of use to him. I did not understand it, but I felt it, as I had heard the men talk about it who had seen him. My son was lying from him, he was draining the land of our men, of our comfort and happiness, and yet here I was, willing and glad to do the least or the greatest thing for him. He was more than a man, Napoleon. As I left the room, at the door I saw a big soldier with an enormous fur shako on his head and a saber in his hand, who mounted guard, and there were at each door and at each window soldiers on guard. I think that my children—our peaceful house surrounded with grand soldiers. And before the entry here a crowd of huge horses stamped and snorted, so full of spirit that the groom could scarcely hold them. I was not in the ordinary way, to get dinner, but I was so dazed with what was happening that I was not entirely capable. I could not seem to make a coup d'etat. When suddenly, I heard a child cry and with a suddenness then but of my babies, I flew to the door of the great room and stood looking, for I could not pass the sentinel.

"Among the officers in their uniforms there lay on the floor little Francis in his nightdress, and all the officers looked at him and lagued—a great shout of laughing which drowned the sound of my coming. I knew later what had happened, for the mayor of the village was there with his lists, and he told me the child, sleeping in the farther room, had waked at the voices and had climbed down from his crib and toddled to see the glitter of the weapons standing about him, some sitting in their chairs, which they pushed back to see better, some leaning across the table, all stared at him. Without doubt it was a sight which they had not seen lately, a boy in his nightdress, and without doubt it seemed homelike to some. However that may be, they were laughing like schoolboys, and it was Napoleon himself who spoke as he stood under the sentinel's arm. He shook his finger at his officer.

"'Marshal, Marshal,' he cried, 'are you not too quick to overthrow so young a soldier, so full of love for arms?'
"And he put at his hand and pinched the little one's ear, which I have heard was a sign of good humor from the Emperor. The marshal laughed also, and the young general spoke to the child on his feet spoke quickly.

"Your Majesty," he said, and he patted the little head as he said it, "Monsieur le Marechal owes a reparation to this soldier of the empire. Will you not write a letter to him to draw the sword which is contested between them and confer knighthood with it? It is an ancient custom, the accolade, and would settle the difference between these gentlemen very pleasantly."

"And the officers laughed again noisily as the general spoke of the great marshal and the little white-gowned baby, as 'these gentlemen,' but Napoleon drew his eyebrows together—yet he smiled.

"Not the marshal," he said, "but I will go it as you say. General, the accolade is an old right of kings, unused for centuries, but none the less a right—held in abeyance. I am the monarch of France—and his voice was like the flash of a blade. I am the monarch of France, he said, and I may give nobility where I choose. For his courage I shall knight this young Frenchman; who knows but his life may some times mean much more to me than his death. There are queer twists in the rope of history—a theme might depend on this lad's spirit as well as on another's. The Emperor seemed to joke, for he laughed a little, yet there was a sound in his voice as if some pain was serious. He turned sharply to the mayor. 'What is the child's name?'"

"The mayor was my friend and knew the babies," Francois Beaupre, Sir, he answered tremblingly.
"The Emperor gave an order to the general, who still kept his hand on the dark little head. 'Make him kneel,' he said. 'Marshal, your sword.'"
The blade clattered out of the sheath in front of the baby's eyes, and he blinked as he looked up, but did not draw away an inch, and as the young general pressed him to his fat knees he put his hands together and said, 'for he thought he was to pray to the good God. So the child knelt before the Emperor, thinking of his prayers. It was still for a moment, and all the officers stood up silent, and then the Emperor took the marshal's sword and struck the baby's shoulder a light blow with the flat of it.

"Rise Chevalier Francois Beaupre," he said clearly, and in the pause he added, with a look in his eyes as if he gazed forward. Some day, perhaps, a Marshal of France under another Bonaparte."

The grandmother's voice stopped, and the entry that had been full of the jingle of harness and the clatter of steel, the stir and color of soldiery, was suddenly hushed and empty. The ghosts of the great which had risen at the simple magic of her memory disappeared into the past years. But the glory and the awe of the name of the Emperor hung about them. The children huddled, their eyes devouring her, their faces close, listening yet. A little girl's voice spoke.

"And, grand-mere, it was—"
"It was Francois," she said, and laid her hand on his shoulder. "The sword of the Emperor touched him here—I saw it. The child's true courage, as if he felt again that blow of the accolade."

Then Tomas, always unimpressed, began to sing jeeringly:
Francois Beaupre,
Nous devons l'admirer,
Notre grand chevalier,
Francois Beaupre—"

And the spell was broken. The children scattered, shouting out into the sunshine of the garden. But Francois stood at his grandmother's side, not hearing or seeing them; staring at the heavy panel of the oak door as if he beheld the figures of Napoleon and his generals pass that way again, and in his child eyes smoldered the inner light of a seer of visions.

CHAPTER II.
The Stranger.
At the end of the long street of Viqueux, next the church stood the house of Francois Beaupre, the father of little Francois and Tomas and the rest. The villagers called him "Le Francois" and his wife "La Claire." This showed them of a certain importance, for one spoke as if there were no others. The house was the largest in the village, and its great earth-floored entry, leading into the stable, was a room of great square. The sunshiny spring days, the grandmother would sit on the long bench against the wall, always with her knitting, always with the children about her, and the door would fly past and into the garden, and the children would be there, their tails, with mild big eyes gazing gently at the group. In front was the flower garden, and little Lucie's head was not so tall as the patch of red pansies. The house was a great breeze tossed in one corner of it.

A beautiful garden it was, the finest in the village, yet this was not the pride of "La Claire," the wife of "Le Francois." She had her own pride, the neighbors said, her tiny fair hair garden, but not this garden of flowers. Outside of the village, half a mile away, on the road to the old chateau, where the fields were laid out in trim rows, flourished all the vegetables of all the villagers. The little houses sat in the long street, the old voice Romanie, the Roman road built before the Christian era and kept up. The houses were set too closely to allow space for the great beds of cabbages, beans, peas, turnips, parsley, endive, chicory, carrots. So the cottages nestled elbow to elbow in the street, and the garden in the fields outside—one might see them by looking—stretched even long fingers through the valley almost to the slope that led to the ruined castle.

Francois, the lad, liked to be sent there with his mother's big basket, to bring back vegetables for the family meal. It was quiet in the long sunlit rows of growing things, and the earthy smell was pleasant, and a boy who had never seen a field before could think well as he broke off stems of chard or dug into the clean damp earth for lettuce—"a salade." Moreover, he would ask sometimes:

"Must I hurry today, mother? Might I go on to the chateau for a little while?"

And often La Claire would smile at the boy and answer: "But yes, my Francois, you may go; there is no hurry."

membered, Francois remembered them many years after. He would set the basket carefully in a safe spot at the very end of the row of well-grown lettuce heads, and then he would cross the field, brushing through the millions of scarlet poppies, higher than the blades of wheat, and climb the steep hillside and scramble over the fence, and be in the old castle. It was a good road, because the people of Viqueux used it often for going to and from the pastures at the foot of the mountain, with the cows. At the end was a gate which closed the way to wagon or cattle; however, a person on foot might open it and go beyond. Inside were the ruins.

On an afternoon in July in the year of 1820, Francois, being ten years old and a peasant, came alone through the gate and sat down with his short legs dangling over an ancient wall, fifteen feet sheer down. He sat there, quite comfortable and secure, and of his brilliant future, and thought of his brilliant future, and also of the story of the great dog and the treasure.

This ruin, the ancient chateau of Viqueux, had a legend. Each child of the village knew it before he could walk, and then the children knew it from their grandfathers for hundreds of years. The tradition ran that ages back, in the time of Caesar, fifty years after Christ, a Roman governor in this Gallie cross the broken a formidable castle on this hill outside the village—"Vicus," the Romans called it simply, "the village"—and "Vicus," changed to "Viqueux," it has since the castle great grandfathers to hold the grain which the governor tortured from the peasants and sent to Rome to sell. This little vicus was on the main road to Rome, which made it convenient for the governor. So he grew rich by oppression, and the gold wrung from the people he piled in cellars deep in his castle. When it came to be a great amount he sent far to the north and got a huge dog, and this dog he trained in terrible fierceness, so that any one coming near him in the long underground corridors where he guarded the treasure was sure to be torn in pieces, except always the governor. The governor knew that the people hated him, even those closest to him, and this savage beast was his only friend, and his reliance.

For years this went on in this way, the governor grinding the peasants, and the giant dog guarding his treasure, till at last there came a thunderbolt—the governor was sent for to come to Rome to give an account of the riches which he had kept from the poor. The governor had to go, but he left the dog in charge, and the night after he was gone the peasantry gathered and set fire to the chateau and burned it to the ground, and the dog and treasure were buried in the ruins. The people of Viqueux believe that if a man will go to dig for that treasure and will stay till midnight, that at twelve exactly a colossal dog will play in the ruins, and the man will stand the ghost of the Roman governor wrapped in white, his face covered. And if the man will be bold enough to take the key from the flaming mouth of the dog, the governor will vanish in a clasp of thunder, and in front of the daring one will rise the door of treasure-vault, and he may turn the key and go in and help himself.

The people of Viqueux believe this because the grandfathers have known from their grandfathers how there were men in old times braver than common who stayed till midnight in the ruins and saw the dog and the ghost—and they were brave enough ever to take the key from the dog's mouth.

The child Francois, his heels hanging over the drop of the ancient wall, the shadows of a large chestnut tree playing in the ruins, and the little figure and across the broken piles of grass-grown stones which had been the castle granaries, revolved this tale in his mind. The picture of the huge dog breathing fire and that ghostly figure of the governor, white, face-covered, dimly outlined in the shadows, gave the boy a thrill of agreeable horror, but not a thrill of fear. Fear had been, those who knew him said, left out of this lad.

"He does not think of himself," said the grandmother proudly, "so he can not fear for himself."

Dinner Stories

An old but sturdy Irishman, who had made a reputation as a gang

"boss," got a job with a railroad construction company at Port au Prince, Hayti. One day when the sun was hotter than usual, his gang of Haytians began to shirk, and as the chief engineer rode up on his horse, he heard the Irishman shout: "Allez! you sons of guns—allez!" Then, turning to the engineer, he said, "I curse the day I ever learned their language."

Mrs. Jackson never opened her mouth without putting her foot in it. The other day she told her daughter that she intended to go and comfort Mrs. Brown, whose husband had committed suicide by hanging himself in the attic of his house.

"Oh, mother," said her daughter, "don't go; you know you always say the wrong thing."

"Yes, I must go," answered the mother. "I will take great care and talk only about the weather; that will be a safe subject."

And this is how the scheme worked out:

"We have had very rainy weather lately, haven't we, Mrs. Brown?"

"Yes," replied the widow. "I haven't been able to get the week's washing dried."

"Oh," put in Mrs. Jackson, "I shouldn't think you'd have had any no children allus build a fourteen-room house? If there's anything in a name a segar maker'll git it out."
